Improved Livelihood from Duck Rearing

In Bangladesh, 15-year-old Farzana, used to go to school with a gloomy face having not enough notebook and pen. Her father Md. Aslam is a day labourer and mother Shahinur Begum is a homemaker. Farzana has an elder brother. With no alternative income source, Farzana and her brother had to go to school without any breakfast most of the time.

Farzana's mother was selected as a beneficiary from World Vision's Gift Catalogue where she received 9 ducks for rearing. After a few months, the ducks began laying eggs. Soon, Shahinur Begum started selling the eggs in local market and was able to buy necessary notebook and pen, and pay school fees for her children. Now Farzana and her brother both go to school regularly with very happy faces. Shahinur Begum also prepares nutritious breakfast and meal with the egg for her children and family. "Now I can provide nutritious food and can manage necessary educational materials for my children," said Shahinur Begum.

Farzana and mother Shahinur Begum supported with the gift of ducks.

Maternity Ward and Medical Equipment to Save Lives

In Tanzania, the newly constructed maternity ward and medical equipment supported by World Vision at Magazini dispensary enabled 38-year-old mother Amina to deliver safely as she received and enjoyed pre-natal and natal services from the centre. Before, the provision and utilisation of maternal newborn child health services was unsatisfactory, said Amina.

"Our dispensary had a delivery bed and one hospital bed used for antenatal and postnatal care that caused congestion, and it was difficult to monitor a mother who had just given birth while allowing another pregnant mother to have space to give birth." Christina, clinical officer narrates the prior hardship of health service provision at the dispensary. "For 2 years I had worked, 4 mothers and 5 newborns had died due to complications during delivery, attributed by the absence of maternity wards and essential maternal newborn child health medical equipment." Now, there is an increasing number of mothers who complete their antenatal care visits and give birth at the health unit. No more children die of preventable diseases, and no more pregnant women die as a result of poor maternal newborn child health services ever since then.
