

Your Red Packet 2020

Somalia is an extremely poor East African country constantly under the threat of conflicts and natural disasters. These disasters are particularly devastating to the lives and livelihoods of the locals, most of them pastoralists or farmers. People become displaced and trapped in generations of poverty. As a result, children may not receive sufficient care and be identified in time when they are sick or malnourished, leading to potentially severe consequences.

Please join us in helping them! Encourage your students to donate their red packets to help improve the nutrition and livelihoods of Somalis. You can give them improved seeds and farming tools, support malnutrition treatments and help set up community-based nutrition programmes to educate people on nutrition. These gifts will help Somalis receive food and rebuild their livelihoods, thus changing their lives for the better.
